Our Ever-Patient God

A friend of mine John, who goes to mass every Sunday with his family narrates his conversation with his younger son: "I was a little surprised when my son suddenly announced one day after church, "I am thinking of being a Minister when I grow up." "Why is that?" I asked. "Well, I figure I have to go to church on Sundays anyway, and I think it'll be more fun to stand and 'yell' than to just sit and listen."

Today's Gospel is about being good at whatever we choose to do, whether we choose to sit and listen or to stand and 'yell'. The most important thing is that God expects us to bear some fruits before the harvest time. The vineyard in today's Gospel is the Church, and we are expected to be good tenants who take care not to jeopardize our lease. We are required to produce fruits of righteousness, peace, joy, love, reconciliation, and harmony.

Like the tenants in the First Reading – the House of Israel, we have all the implements required for a productive harvest. We have the Scripture and the Sacraments, as well as the leadership of the Church to help us work as hard and honestly as is expected of faithful tenants. However, sin makes us like unfaithful and unproductive tenants. Today's readings show how God gives us numerous opportunities to do the right thing, to achieve our purpose in life.

But as humans, we often struggle to do what is right, yet God never abandons us. The Lord is always patient with us. He gives us chance after chance, many more than we deserve. He never gives up on us, even though sometimes we give up on ourselves. God's boundless mercy is the best evidence of his immense goodness.

Therefore, brothers and sisters, as we renew our faith in God and the Church today, let us also renew our commitment to the promises we make to one another.

Peace be with You!

Fr Lucius Edomobi
