

Kindness Matters

There was a lovely article in last week's 'the LOCAL' written by Alistair Gray. It featured two of our St Columban's Teachers - Emily Lovell and Ellie Wust. Emily & Ellie have set up a kindness movement 'I AM KIND' and what they have set out to do is to try to encourage people to recognise that demonstrating small acts of kindness can make all the difference to someone else. Further to what they have initiated at the College with the students (which is amazing) they have teamed with one of the local cafés on Bribie with a 'pay it forward' scheme. Customers (after enjoying the cafés great coffee and food) are invited to donate something off the board to someone else, someone who may be finding life a bit of a struggle; thus, paying it forward. It could be as simple as a cup of coffee or as valuable as a meal. Emily and Ellie epitomise the values that Christ sets for us, by their actions they are modelling a way of life for their students that speaks volumes, young people sometimes don't want to hear, they want to see. Congratulations and well done, may you both be blessed by your generous and kind natures.
